Federal Court Awards Ute Tribe $31,700,000 Claim

WASHINGTON — The Federal Court of Claims has awarded the Ute Indian tribes of Colorado and Utah $31,700,000 in settlement of a land dispute dating back to 1891.

Consisting of four judgements, one for $24,25,127, the settlement is said to be the largest ever made against the government by the court.

The judgements are in payment for more than 6,000,000 acres of land taken from the Utes by the government between 1891 and 1938.

The land involved consists largely of mountainous areas in western Colorado, ranging in elevation from 5,000 to 13,000 feet. It has a high mineral value. Besides two productive oil fields, it includes extensive deposits of vanadium, major coal reserves, what is said to be the largest deposit of shale oil in the United States and more than 4,000,000 acres of grazing land.

Actually the land has been the subject of a tug of war between the Indians and the government since 1868. That year the government by treaty set aside 15,000,000 acres in Western Colorado for the Utes.

The government later bought back 4,000,000 acres and eventually took over the rest. This action resulted in the long and involved litigation.

Lawyers for the Utes said that approximately 60 per cent of the award would go to Utes living in Utah, the remainder to Utes in Colorado. The award was said to represent more than $10,000 for each member of the confederated tribes.

Frenchmen Climb 26,496 Foot Peak in Himalayas

PARIS—Five Frenchmen have returned from the Himalayas with claims of mastering the Annapurna Peak, 26,496 feet high. But the cold almost got them.

Maurice Herzog, the 41-year-old leader of the expedition, was a stretcher patient on his arrival by plane in Paris. A frostbite victim, he lost all his toes and all his fingers up to the first joints. Louis Lachenal lost all his toes. The others were battered and physically exhausted from climbing Annapurna in the Everest group. Men have climbed higher before, close to 28,000 feet on Everest and K-2. Mt. Godwin Austen, but had to turn back before achieving the crests. Everest ranges up 29,002 feet in the Nepal-Tibet frontier area. K-2 rises 28,250 feet in India.

The Frenchmen had hoped to get up Mount Dhaulagiri, a rugged 26,810-foot peak in Nepal, 205 miles west of Everest, but had to abandon the plan because of what they called "insuferable difficulties."

The French government financed a third of the expedition's cost. The rest was paid by private backers and the Alpine Club of France.

Forest So Dry In West Fire Starts in River

PORTLAND, Ore. — The forests of the west are so dry a fire started in a river.

It's a fact, a Mount Hood National Forest crew reported. They said a fisherman, apparently assuming he was in a fireproof spot, dropped a cigarette into a log jam in Salmon river.

Despite the water running underneath and on either side, fire jumped up, leaped ashore, and began running up a canyon wall before the crew arrived to put it out with hand pumps.

19,014,000 American Vets Still Alive, VA Reports

WASHINGTON—The Veterans Administration reports 19,014,000 American war veterans are still alive, 14,000,000 of them from World War II.

The administration's figures reveal the surviving veterans:

Grand army of the republic—15.

Indian wars—500.

Spanish-American war—19,000.

Total battle casualties for all American wars were estimated at 535,300 of the 25,030,000 who took part in them, including the revolution. There are 2,308,700 disabled men.

The V.A. carries 384,000 veterans' widows on its books, plus 278,300 minor children.

Athletic Woman Swings Man to Safety on Porch

CHICAGO, Ill. — Women are called the weaker sex, but it isn't always so.

Mrs. Gloria Schmidt, 25, who weighs 200 pounds, heard cries of help from her back porch. She found Joseph Vogt, 63, clinging to a third floor window sill, 35 feet above the ground, by his fingertips.

Vogt had returned home and found himself locked out of his apartment. He leaned over, trying to reach a window from his back porch, but slipped over the railing.

Mrs. Schmidt leaned out and grabbed Vogt by the ankles. She shouted to him to let go and swung him in an arc through the air until he hung suspended by his ankles.

"I'll try to hold you until the fire department comes," she gasped.

But the 180 pound Vogt was too heavy and Mrs. Schmidt was afraid the porch railing would give way. She lowered him as far as she could and swung him, head down, to the second floor porch below.

Physicians said Vogt suffered a brain concussion when he struck his head on the porch floor. But police said he had Mrs. Schmidt to thank for being alive.

APPOMATTOX HIGH SCHOOL NEWS
Barbara Ann Johnson, Reporter

Well, here we are again starting a new and better year. I hope everyone had an enjoyable summer and that we are now ready to get down to work.

We are glad to welcome to our faculty Mr. Louis F. Cockerill, who is replacing Mrs. Nellie John. We also welcome many new students who have moved from other towns. We feel sure that we will profit by their coming.

Although the school is very much alive and noisy, we miss our fifty graduates a great deal. Here is some inside information about where some of our last year's graduates will be: Dick Marks, Harry Gordon Lawson and Byron Babcock have journeyed to Charlottesville to attend the University of Virginia; David Ferguson, University of Richmond; Sam Ferguson, Hampden-Sydney; George Watson, Roanoke College; Buddy Ould, Fork Union; John Henry Chandler, Florence Robertson, Mildred Mann, and Evelina Moore, Phillips Secretarial College; Faye Wood, Farmville College; Gwyn Shuford, Madison College; Joyce Christian, Wellesly College; Charles Harvey, V. P. I.

We are proud of one of our Seniors, Helen Mae Poe, who was crowned queen of the tobacco celebration held in Brookneal last Friday. Among those attending from our high school were Miss Allen, Lois Wood, Peggy Cole, Barbara Johnson, and Edd Cawthorne.

At the present time I think everyone's attention is turned to our big football game tonight with the E. C. Glass Junior Varsity. Although we suffered the loss of nine players from last year's team, I hear Coach Bragg thinks our team will be just as ready and in the same top shape of the 10 eleven. Our home-coming game will be October 13 with the Bedford High School. Will let you know more about it later.

Speaking of football, our cheerleaders are trying just about as hard to be ready for our first game as the football players. They have had a few practices during the summer and have been practicing after school. If you are not a football player or a cheerleader, your job is to help keep up the morale of our team, so try to attend the games.

The Senior Class got an early start this year by electing the officers for the coming session. The officers are:

President, Jimmy Harris
Vice-president, Mary Ann Thompson
Secretary, Ann Waller
Treasurer, June Holt
Reporter, Barbara Carter
Historian, Betty Wingfield.

Our first chapel program was held Wednesday, with Principal Kerr explaining the new rules and regulations. Coach Bragg gave information about the coming football season, and the cheerleaders held a pep rally.

Sicilian Bandit Shot Down After Seven-Year Hunt

CASTELVETRANO, Sicily — The most celebrated bandit of modern times, following a recent merchant, has been killed by police, was shot down by police after a hunt of seven years.

A special Italian national police detachment made the kill after trailing the swarthy, dark-eyed gunman for days with a radio car camouflaged as a newspaper truck. The detachment formed part of a 2000-man force which had hunted Guiliano for 10 months.

The skirmish marked the end of a man accused of killing nearly 100 policemen and scores of other crimes, a man who defied Italian authorities in barbed declarations and proclaimed his own "free state of Sicily" after he took to the hills in 1943.

Challenged Officials

Italy's interior minister, Mario Scelba, said it marked the end of banditry in Sicily. The bandit king, whom friends regarded as a Robin Hood because of the way he shared the loot of his robberies and kidnappings, had been a fugitive since he slew a policeman who tried to seize a load of black market wheat from him September 3, 1943.

Officers had been close on Giuliano's heels for two weeks. Then just before dawn on July 5, Giuliano crept from a house in which he was hiding and stole to another building, whose door was shrouded by a cloth curtain. Police were there, waiting for him.

Guns barked as he pushed his way through the curtain. Giuliano turned to get away, but fell dead by a tree.

The bandit once "declared" war on Italy as the commander in chief of a bandit force of about 20 men. Several years ago he challenged 10 government leaders to fight him, one at a time.

"If I lose, it will be my life," he wrote. "If I win, I will take over the government."

Price on Head

An interior minister once put a price of 500,000 lire (about $850) on Giuliano's head. Giuliano came back with an offer of 600,000 lire (about $1,000) for the minister's head.

Giuliano had been termed a fiery anti-Communist. He was charged with turning machine guns on a May Day parade near Palermo in 1947, killing eight persons and wounding 33.
